SC Department of Agriculture Expands Partnership with Piggly Wiggly to Promote Certified SC

The South Carolina Department of Agriculture (SCDA) and Piggly Wiggly announced that they will expand their statewide partnership to help consumers better identify all local products in their South Carolina stores, including grocery, meat, deli and dairy in addition to produce.

The announcement was made during a three-stop media tour at Piggly Wiggly stores across the state in Columbia, Florence and Isle of Palms on June 11. South Carolina Commissioner of Agriculture, Hugh Weathers, thanked Piggly Wiggly for their support and explained to customers the benefits of buying local.

"Agribusiness contributes $34 billion to our state's economy each year and employs more than 200,000 South Carolinians," said Weathers. "With continued support from Certified SC retail partners like Piggly Wiggly and our local farmers and producers, we can increase this to $50 billion by 2020," he added. "Our extended, statewide partnership with Piggly Wiggly will certainly give a large boost to our promotional efforts, and we are hopeful that our increased presence will cause awareness for the Certified SC brand to increase dramatically."

Commissioner Hugh Weathers greets Palmetto Girls State delegate Mary Shaw Wylie at his office. Wylie was elected as Commissioner of Agriculture for Girls State.

Commissioner Weathers greets Boys and Girls State delegates

In the summer time in South Carolina a few things are certain: heat, great local produce and Palmetto Boys and Girls State in June. Each year more than 1,500 young men and women across the state gather at the University of South Carolina and Presbyterian College for this week-long program designed to teach them about our governmental system and the politics that make it run.

Commissioner Weathers greeted delegates from Boys State and Girls State during a ceremony held on the State Capitol's north steps June 18. He met with and escorted Mary Shaw Wylie and Will Moody as they were inaugurated to their new post as "Commissioner of Agriculture" for Boys and Girls State.

How do you answer our Anthem?

Our National Anthem will be presented many times during the July 4th holiday. The last line of the Star Spangled Banner, grammatically speaking, is a question which asks "does that star-spangled banner yet wave o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave". Yes, the banner was still there that night in Baltimore harbor for Francis Scott Key, but we are left with a question that we should be answering in 2010 and beyond. Is it still waving for free and brave people?

Our flag still waves because of the sacrifices that we honor each Memorial Day and the courage that we recognize each July 4th and Veterans Day. We hold in our highest praise the sacrifice and service of our military personnel and their families at home. And we also give respect and honor to our founding fathers for their world-changing course culminating on July 4, 1776.

I believe that every American standing with hand over heart should answer the questioning line of that first verse of our National Anthem. There are several others that follow. And, bless his heart, Francis Scott Key gave us the answer when he penned the final verse.

While the first verse portrays a battle scene that we can easily see with our mind's eye followed by our flag waving in a brisk wind on a sunny day, the final verse makes very poignant statements for our battles in 2010. And for every battle our country has faced for nearly 200 years and could face for the next 200.

our Anthem?,

Legal Notice
on Referendum for Continuance of the Marketing Order
for South Carolina Cotton

Pursuant to the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings for continuance of marketing orders under provisions of the "Agricultural Commodities Marketing Act" of 1968, and as amended, and Marketing Order No. 12 for South Carolina Cotton issued July 6, 1990, notice is hereby given that the Agriculture Commission of South Carolina will conduct a referendum by mail among affected producers for continuance of Marketing Order No. 12 for South Carolina Cotton during the period July 12-23, 2010, as required by Section XII. Continuance: Prior to the completion of each five (5) calendar years from the effective date of this Order, the Commission shall resubmit the Order to a referendum of affected producers according to the requirements of initial assent pursuant to the Act. In the event that the required assent is not given by the affected producers, this Order shall be declared to be terminated.

The Marketing Order provides a legal framework through which a Cotton Board could act on programs of advertising and sales promotion, research and market development and other matters to achieve more orderly marketing conditions and thereby tend to achieve the declared policy of the Agricultural Commodities Marketing Act. The Cotton Marketing Order mandates that ginners collect one dollar per bale from producers for said programs. A South Carolina Cotton Board composed of seven producer members and one ex-officio member will administer the Order.

Copies of the Marketing Order may be obtained from the Agriculture Commission of South Carolina, PO Box 11280, Columbia, South Carolina, 29211.

Barbecued Pork Sandwiches

2 1/2-3 pound boneless pork shoulder(Boston butt) or sirloin	2 tablespoons orange marmalade
2 medium onions, sliced	1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup bottle barbecue sauce	1 tablespoon water
1/2 teaspoon hot pepper sauce	6-8 sandwich buns

Cut roast into 2-inch cubes; place in 3 1/2-4 quart slow cooker with onion and barbecue sauce, hot pepper sauce and marmalade. Cover and cook on Low for 6-8 hours, until tender. Remove pork and onions from slow cooker with slotted spoon. Shred pork and set aside. Combine cornstarch and water and add this mixture to juices in slow cooker, stirring to blend well. Cover and cook on High for 1 minute; return the pork to slow cooker and heat through, on High for 10 minutes. Serve on sandwich buns. Serves 6-8.

How do you answer our Anthem?

When you read the words, you should find yourself more resolute in knowing what has made our country great. We are reminded that, as a free people, we must always stand between our homes and war's desolation. That 'war' may be over territory, may be over resources, may be over the future direction of our country. It could be fought around the world or around the corner. The weaponry used might include a military arsenal or may be just ink on paper, or may be carefully crafted oratory.

The lyrics speak to our blessings of peace and that we recognize a power beyond ourselves that guided the foundation of our country. The question we must ask ourselves is whether that higher power still guides us in this new decade and millennium. Or whether we have become too impressed with ourselves and feel a permanent sense of entitlement to our standing in the world.

Though our nation was only fifty years old when Key wrote our anthem, he saw the potential for our country's place in world history. He told us in this 'instruction manual for national survival' that our position would demand responsible use of our resources when the cause to conquer was just. Perhaps he was giving specific instructions for such a time as 2010 when our very way of life that we enjoy is challenged - from blatant enemies beyond our borders to subtle ones within.

And one more reminder of where to place our trust . . . Webster defines motto as 'a short expression of a guiding principle'. If our country has ever needed to take its guiding principle from our Heavenly founding father, it is 2010. Francis Scott Key saw our motto of "In God is our trust" as a binding covenant not to be challenged in a court of public opinion or of law, regardless of how self-sufficient we think ourselves to be.

The anthem closes with an answer to its question in the opening verse with an assurance that our banner shall wave over brave and free people. However, it is a conditioned assurance, not a blanket assumption, certainly not an entitlement. The conditions will not be entirely met through military battle or political discourse. The battle will have many fronts and every American should be ready to do his or her part to answer our anthem.

Whether you hear the National Anthem this 4th of July or at a baseball game or some other occasion, remember those who sacrificed and served our country, those who founded this nation, and all of the patriotic citizens of this nation who provide food and fiber to sustain us. Because of them and because of our own resolve, Our star-spangled banner . . . shall wave, O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!

Hugh E. Weathers, Commissioner

The Star-Spangled Banner-Francis Scott Key, 1814

O say, can you see, by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hail'd at the twilight's last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, thro' the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watch'd, were so gallantly streaming?
And the rockets' red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof thro' the night that our flag was still there.
O say, does that star-spangled banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

On the shore dimly seen thro' the mists of the deep,
Where the foe's haughty host in dread silence reposes,
What is that which the breeze, o'er the towering steep,
As it fitfully blows, half conceals, half discloses?
Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam,
In full glory reflected, now shines on the stream:
'Tis the star-spangled banner: O, long may it wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!

And where is that band who so vauntingly swore
That the havoc of war and the battle's confusion,
A home and a country should leave us no more?
Their blood has wash'd out their foul footsteps' pollution.
No refuge could save the hireling and slave
From the terror of flight or the gloom of the grave:
And the star-spangled banner in triumph doth wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

O thus be it ever when free-men shall stand
Between their lov'd home and the war's desolation;
Blest with vict'ry and peace, may the heav'n-rescued land
Praise the Pow'r that hath made and preserv'd us a nation!
Then conquer we must, when our cause it is just,
And this be our motto: "In God is our trust!"
And the star-spangled banner in triumph shall wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!

Partnership

Piggly Wiggly has been a member of the Certified SC program since its inception in 2007, promoting locally grown produce with signage in all of their SC stores, and with the newly expanded program, it will be even easier for buyers to identify locally grown produce and products.

"At The Pig, we stay true to our South Carolina roots so it's only natural that we would partner with the Certified SC program to do business locally with our state's vendors, farmers manufacturers and business partners," said Tommy Guthrie, spokesperson for Piggly Wiggly. "We are very proud to provide and promote the freshest, highest quality local produce and products to our consumers at reasonable prices," he added.

South Carolina farmers representing Clayton Rawl Farms in Lexington, McLeod Farms in McBee, and Gruber Farms in St. George, also spoke at the events, explaining their relationships with Piggly Wiggly and the Certified SC program.

Piggly Wiggly encouraged customers to shop at their stores on Saturday, June 12, and take part in the Piggly Wiggly farmers markets featuring Certified SC Grown produce as well as samples, specials, free food, games and prizes for families.

State delegates

"Every year it is a pleasure to meet these young men and women who have taken an interest in our country's political system," Commissioner Weathers said.

Boys State and Girls State are called a 'Laboratory of Government', because during the week, the students have the opportunity to campaign and be elected to mock political offices ranging from city level to state constitutional offices such as Governor and Lieutenant Governor or Commissioner of Agriculture. It is considered to be as much leadership training as it is an opportunity to learn about and participate in government and politics.

They are selected by their teachers and counselors to attend. Only those with outstanding qualities of leadership, character, scholarship, loyalty and service to their schools and community are considered for selection. Boys State is held at USC while Girls State is held at Presbyterian College.

The Girls State delegates elected as Constitutional Officers also attended an ice cream social at the Department of Agriculture on June 18 where they learned the important work the Department and its employees do for the citizens of South Carolina.

Miss Lexington County Peach Queen visits SC Department of Agriculture

South Carolina’s signature crop, peaches, are in season and to help celebrate this summertime treat now available, the reigning Miss Lexington County Peach Queen delivered a basket of peaches to South Carolina Agriculture Commissioner Hugh Weathers on June 14.

Marla Cotterman, the reigning Miss Lexington County Peach Queen and student at Gilbert High School, delivered the peaches to Commissioner Weathers on behalf of the Lexington County peach growers and the Peach Festival. For the past 50 years Lexington County has held the peach festival in Gilbert and it is recognized as one of the most successful and prestigiou events of its kind in the southeastern United States.

This year the 52nd Lexington County Peach Festival will be held July 3rd, 2010 in Gilbert. The festival takes place in the Gilbert Community Park: located on Rikard Circle behind Gilbert United Methodist Church and between Gilbert Primary and Gilbert Middle Schools.

“South Carolina is known for our sweet peaches and nothing says summer like the taste of a freshly picked, locally grown South Carolina peach,” Weathers said.

South Carolina is the second largest peach producing state in the country, only second to California. The South Carolina peach is the tastier peach because Mother Nature works hand-in-hand with South Carolina growers. Under careful observation, growers let their peaches ripen naturally on the tree under the summer sky. Combined with the Palmetto State’s hot days, humid nights, and slightly acidic soils, these growers are able to produce the sweetest, juiciest, and best-tasting peaches on the market.

The South Carolina Department of Agriculture has been encouraging consumers to "Buy South Carolina" through its Certified SC Grown campaign. Consumers who are interested in purchasing locally grown peaches can look for the Certified SC Grown logo wherever they shop for fresh produce. If you don’t see them, ask your produce manager.

For more information on buying locally grown visit the South Carolina Department of Agriculture’s website at: www.agriculture.sc.gov and click on www.certifiedscgrown.com.

USDA Announces Twelve ‘People’s Gardens’ in South Carolina

USDA announced that “People’s Gardens” now exist in all 50 states, two U.S. territories, and three foreign countries. South Carolina State Conservationist for the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) Ann English said there are twelve gardens throughout the state at USDA Service Centers. The gardens are in Bamberg, Barnwell, Colleton, Dorchester, Edgefield, Horry, Laurens, Lee, Newberry, Orangeburg, Spartanburg, and Williamsburg.

To date, there are over 400 ‘People’s Gardens’ across the country. This is a significant milestone in ‘The People’s Garden’ initiative since Secretary Vilsack broke ground one year ago at USDA headquarters in Washington, DC. In South Carolina, the gardens boast an assortment of vegetables, flowers, and herbs.
